The Red Barn Cooperative Preschool was formed in 1977, by a group of parents eager to belong to a true parent cooperative. Red Barn is a non-profit, non-sectarian, state registered private school. It is a member of the Parent-Child Preschools of Oregon (PCPO).

The Red Barn program is based on research that clearly demonstrates young children learn best by doing, exploring, discovering, manipulating, experimenting, and interacting. Children are basically kinesthetic learners, needing to move and to handle a variety of objects and materials that will expose them to all the modes of learning, including auditory, visual, and kinesthetic. Our art area has its easels, play dough, gluing, and craft activities. Our play area is well equipped with its wooden blocks, large trucks, legos, and other toys. The quiet room has a large collection of books, a science cabinet, puzzles, and games. Our dramatic playroom which offers different themes several times during the year has a kitchen area and dress up clothes. All of the different rooms offer a range of choices each child can make daily.

We believe that children also should have an opportunity during their school day to participate in large and small group activities involving music, art, language development, literature, movement, health, and safety. Through this they will gain knowledge of themselves and the world around them. Their course of instruction at Red Barn offers choices within limits, encourages critical thinking and discovery as well as exploration and perhaps most important, provides a climate of acceptance and encouragement that fosters self-confidence and self worth.

The children go on various field trips (e.g., fire station, library, and post office), throughout the year. They have a snack time and a group time during which the teacher reads stories and leads singing and movement games.

Our 2Day teacher, Michele Pesznecker, has extensive years of experience in the background of Early Childhood Education. She has an associate degree in Early Childhood Education from Mt. Hood Community College, and continues to attend workshops and classes to gain new ideas and better skills. Michele previously taught at private preschools and for the Clackamas County Head Start program. Michele has been working at Red Barn Preschool since 1994. She enjoys working with young children and helping them to become confident and creative when entering the public school.

Our 3Day teacher, Julie Colton, has many years of experience here at Red Barn. In 2001 she was the 2Day class rep and in 2002 she became President. Then in 2007 she was hired as Assistant Teacher during this time she returned to school to complete her associates in Interdisciplinary Studies in Early Childhood Education from Kaplan University. She graduated Summer 2010. Julie is an active part of the Estacada community and spends much of her free time volunteering within the community. Julie is enthusiastic and spreads her enthusiasm to children and adults alike.

In 2005, the Red Barn board of directors recognized a growing need in our community to offer busy families the option of enrolling their child in preschool without the added commitment of parent helping. Red Barn decided to provide families the option of Full or Partial Co-op. The additional tuition paid by the Partial Co-op families is used to pay a highly qualified assistant teacher, allowing Red Barn to keep our child/adult ratio low.

Red Barn classes are limited to 18 children in both the 2-day and 3-day classes. The 2-day class is comprised of children who are three years of age before September 1st. Children joining the 3-day class are four years of age before September 1st. Applicants who do not meet this age criteria are admitted, space permitting, after a probationary period and at the board and teacher's discretion. Children must be potty trained.

It is important that parents wishing to enroll their children in Red Barn understand the structure of a parent cooperative. A co-op is operated by the parents. They attend to the hundreds of details required to operate a school. Therefore, parents who join Red Barn must be prepared to spend several hours each month supporting the school's operation.

Most of us find it a pleasure to do this. When it is our turn to parent help we enjoy seeing first hand how the program works and how our child is participating. It is a joy to come to know the children in the class as the unique individuals they are. We enjoy the interaction with other parents in performing our committee assignments, attending meetings and helping in projects. Before you decide to join you need to know specifically what is required of you:

- 1. Pay tuition the first class session of each month.
- 2. A: If Full Co-op option selected, classroom help two times per month.
B: If Partial Co-op option selected, no classroom help duties required.
- 3. Serve on the board or fill a job assignment.
- 4. Attend the Orientation Meeting (August or September) and two Mandatory General Membership Meetings.
- 5. Participate in two of the three major school cleanings.
- 6. Participate in one or more fundraising activities.

If you cannot meet all the above obligations, we may be able to work with you to find alternatives to fulfill your responsibilities. For example, some families pay extra each month in lieu of a job assignment. Partial Co-op is available for families who are unable to fulfill classroom help requirements. If you select this option, you may visit the classroom anytime your schedule allows.

We believe strongly in the importance of a preschool experience for children. We also believe that it is important that families choose the preschool that is most compatible with their own philosophy and lifestyle. In Estacada, we are fortunate to have other preschools with different organizational structures. We suggest that you visit each one during its class time and talk to the contact person. Please carefully consider the alternatives and make the choice that is right for your family. Thank you for considering Red Barn.

Red Barn does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national and ethnic origin, or religion. Red Barn is a non-profit organization.
